Subject: Microsoft Settlement

Since I never thought the case had any merit to begin with I welcome an end to it. It has always been about whiner company ceos and state attorney generals who couldn't achieve their selfish ends in the market and instead chose the tyrannical powers of the state to support them. Those people are the real criminals deserving of prosecution not Microsoft. If the Bush Administration really believed the rhetoric they spout on the campaign trail about freedom and markets they would have dismissed this whole bogus case on day one. Instead they opt for this settlement that continues to penalize Microsoft unfairly.
